Livestock Authorities Can't Agree On Either Market or Supplies for Future with Dark Corn Outlook

CHICAGO, July 11—(P)—Livestock and meat authorities in the nation's largest marketing center disagreed today as to the effect on supplies indicated in the government's forecast of a sharp drop in the corn crop.

H. M. Conway, market analyst for the National Livestock Producers Association, termed the government's estimated production as "optimistic" and said the country was in a "fairly critical situation which is more likely to go worse than not."

Meandering Along the Main Stem

By WASH. FAYETTE

Rev. A. E. Huntington, pastor of the Washington C. H. Circuit of the Methodist Church, is one of Fayette County's most enthusiastic fishermen, and each year spends his vacation where the fishing is good.

This year Rev. and Mrs. Huntington went to Michigan, so I was not surprised this week to receive a card from the Reverend postmarked Grand Rapids, stating that there are "plenty of fish and strawberries," and that he had landed a pike which weighed over 10 pounds.

At the present time the strawberry crop in Michigan is at its best, and many of the berries are reaching the markets here.

I have a hunch that when the Reverend writes that there are plenty of strawberries, he referred to the delicious wild strawberries which grow abundantly in the sandy soil of Michigan, and may be found along the banks of streams and lakes near where the fishing is good.

Here's one for Ripley's "Believe it or not," and it will be of exceptional interest to every farmer as well as to the rest of you good folks who read this column.

Dale Wilson, a prominent farmer residing on the Greenfield and Sabina road on the former James Purcell farm, is one of Fayette County's leading Guernsey cattle breeders.

So far this year his cows have produced 18 calves and every one of them is a heifer. Sixteen of them were by one sire.

This probably would not happen again in a million times, for usually the number of male calves is about equally divided.

One time, at Jackson, I saw a litter of 12 bird dog puppies and every one of them was a male, and that, too, was one of the extraordinary freaks of nature that "just don't happen" and yet does at rare intervals.

Columbus Workers To Get $1,387,917

COLUMBUS, July 11—(P)—A $1,387,917 melon soon will be split up by Columbus city employees at the direction of city council—but it's all money that the city fathers withheld from salaries during the depression.

Mayor James A. Rhodes, councilmen and attorneys for the employees reached an agreement yesterday that the city would repay employees' claims for the five and 10 percent deductions that were made between 1931 and Feb. 28, 1937 to finance public charity and general operations here.

By agreeing to repay the principal amount before claim suits now on file are sent through the courts, the city saves the interest that might be assessed during the course of litigation.

Bainbridge Man Gives Up to Army

MANSFIELD, July 11—(P)—A 36-year-old man walked into police headquarters yesterday and asked that he be returned to army authorities as a war-time deserter.

The man identified himself as Clifford Cecil Milliron of Bainbridge, Ohio, and said he deserted from Fort Crook, Nebraska, in July 1943.

Police officers quoted the man as saying he had often thought about giving himself up, but "had never been able to work up the courage."

Housing Plans And Bond-Cash Bill Deferred

Congress May Probe War Profits Charge; Buying Controlled

WASHINGTON, July 11—(P)—Measures providing for a long-range housing program and for immediate cash payment of terminal pay for veterans were omitted today from a list of legislation scheduled by Senate Republican leaders for action before adjournment of Congress July 26.

Chairman Michener (R-Mich.) said today the House judiciary committee will investigate promptly charges by Comptroller General Lindsay Warren that at least 19 war contractors defrauded the government of more than $2,000,000 in contract settlements.

Warren declared in a report to Congress that "certain war and navy officers and employees engaged on termination settlements went to work immediately thereafter with the very war contractors on whose termination claims they had worked."

He said there was no doubt "some officers and employees" were guilty of "feathering their nests" when reaching the post-war settlements.

Michener told a newsman the Warren report probably will be referred to a subcommittee for investigation.

"We will deal judiciously with anything that comes to us," he added.

Buying Controls

Legislation extending controls on consumer installment buying through Dec. 31 but requiring more liberal credit terms was approved 6 to 4 today by the Senate banking committee.

The House banking committee has voted to eliminate such controls, currently in effect under a presidential executive order.

The resolution approved by the Senate committee would prohibit the federal reserve board from fixing less than a 24-month period for paying for consumer goods on credit.

All such goods now covered by the board's regulation "W" must be paid for in at least 15 months.

A committee official told newsmen that under the proposed extension of controls it would be up to the board to decide whether 24 months or some longer period would be the maximum.

The resolution also prohibits the board from requiring a down payment of more than 20 percent.

At present 20 percent is required for furniture, but a down payment of one-third is required on installment buying of automobiles, refrigerators, stoves, washing machines and other consumer items.

Marriner Eccles, chairman of the board, had urged the committee to extend credit controls through July 31, 1948.

Taft Gives GOP Plans

Chairman Taft (Ohio) of the Senate Republican policy committee told reporters the GOP leaders plan to try and push the $4,000,000,000 income tax-cutting bill and a cluster of delayed appropriations bills through the Senate by Tuesday.

Body of Woman Found in Churchyard; Man Seen at Scene Leaves Suddenly

MARION, July 11—(P)—The nearly nude and rope-trussed body of a 25-year-old divorcee was found in a rural churchyard near here early today by two brothers who said they talked with a man at the scene before calling the sheriff.

Sheriff Leroy Retterer identified the victim as Mrs. Zora Gerbes of Marion, mother of three children, who was divorced four years ago.

He said the body, attired only in a blouse and one shoe, had a clothesline wrapped three times around the neck and then passed under the legs, pulling the knees almost up to the chin.

Two bruises on the left leg were the only marks on the body, the sheriff added.

The body was in the yard of rural St. Pauls Lutheran Church, five miles east of here on Route 98.

Retterer said two brothers, Charles and Harry Yeager, who live near the churchyard, gave this account of their discovery:

Returning home from Marion about 2 A. M., the brothers saw a man acting strangely in the churchyard.

Upon turning into the church driveway they saw the woman but did not realize what had happened.

A dark-haired man about 30 or 32 years old came to their car and said, "well, there is my license number. What are you going to do about it?"

The brothers said they were going to call the sheriff and the man replied he would wait until they returned.

The brothers went to a farm home about half a mile from the church and called the sheriff. Returning they found the man gone.

Sheriff Retterer said the woman was dead on his arrival. He expressed belief she had been killed elsewhere and the body brought to the churchyard because there were no signs of a struggle there.

Coroner E. H. Morgan said strangulation caused her death. He said there was a slip noose in the rope about the victim's neck.

Retterer said Mrs. Gerbes was divorced from Kenneth Gerbes, a Diesel locomotive shop worker in Marion. She had been living here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Kellis.

She was last seen leaving the Marion business district in a taxi about 8:30 P. M. last night, the sheriff reported.

He said the Yeager brothers described the man they talked with at the churchyard as about six feet tall and weighing about 185 pounds. He was wearing a tan coverall and blue jacket.

The sheriff said he had been unable to locate the man who had been issued the automobile license number supplied by the brothers.

Deputy Registrar Walter C. Bailey said the number had been issued for a 1933 Chevrolet coupe.

Cost of Living Outlook To Be Given to People

President to Report On Economic Picture Within Two Weeks

WASHINGTON, July 11—(P)—President Truman today decided to send Congress within the next ten days a special mid-year report on the economic outlook, including the possible effect of John L. Lewis' new coal wage gains on living costs.

Presidential Secretary Charles G. Ross said this was decided at a meeting of Mr. Truman with his cabinet. He said the consensus of the meeting was that there has been "a tendency to exaggerate the importance of the coal settlement on the overall wage picture."

"Of course, if prices should go up as a result, that would be a matter of concern," Ross added.

Edwin G. Nourse, chairman of the president's council of economic advisers read to the cabinet a memorandum on the state of the nation's business, based on the council's continuing researches.

Ross said the cabinet felt it would "be a very useful thing to put these findings out for the benefit of Congress and the country." He added that he does not know whether there will be White House recommendations for legislation in connection with the finding.

Ross would not confirm reports that the council still expects, as it did in March, that a business downturn threatens, and that a noticeable decline in consumers' disposable income will have an adverse effect on jobs and production when present-breaking exports fall off.

Ross also would not confirm reports that the council advised Mr. Truman the new coal wage agreement is not far out of line with the 15-cent "pattern" established by other unions this spring, and that it need not necessitate large increases in the price of steel and other coal-dependent products.

Lewis' new contracts with bituminous coal operators, giving his United Mine Workers the highest pay in their history, were extended last night to cover anthracite mines.

The agreements provide $1.20-a-day pay boosts for $400,000 soft coal diggers and 75,000 hard coal miners. The settlements with anthracite operators were included after only a few hours of negotiations between the UMW president and industry representatives.

Ross said the council's full comment (Please Turn To Page Two)

Gang of Six Yeggs Held in Michigan

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., July 11—(P)—Authorities today named six men as members of a gang they said netted approximately $100,000 in a series of 200 safe-crackings in Michigan and Indiana during the past three years.

Assistant Prosecutor Roger McMahon said elaborate pains taken by the gang to cover up their robberies came to naught when one of the men, seeking to withdraw from the group, informed on them to the police.

The assistant prosecutor said the gang carried gas masks on all jobs in the event they ran up against a safe protected by tear gas.

McMahon identified Alex Jerome, 32, alias Al Geronis, as leader of the group, which he said included Leo Price, 21, George Mabey, 25, George Hamilton, 27, Albert Mulvey, 22, and Carl Herman, 19.

Man Found Shot Near Circleville

CIRCLEVILLE, July 11—(P)—Mary Paxton found her 22-year-old husband, Noah Paxton, dead of a bullet wound between the eyes in his car parked on a rural road early today. Coroner Lloyd Jones ordered an autopsy in an effort to learn how he had been shot.

The coroner said a rifle lay in Paxton's lap. Jones said no suicide note was found and that relatives could ascribe no motive for the shooting.

Amphibian Plane Crashes in Street

PHILADELPHIA, July 11—(P)—An amphibian plane, out of gas and attempting an emergency landing on a northwest Philadelphia street, crashed before hundreds of spectators last night killing a passenger and the pilot.

Howard A. Herkins, the passenger, was president of the Wilmington, Del., Construction Co., and son-in-law of Lamont Du Pont, board chairman of E. I. Du Pont de Nemours & Co. Perkins was thrown 20 feet from the plane and was dead when spectators reached him.

Pilot Martin Garson, 40, of (3155 Grand Concourse) New York, died this morning in Temple University Hospital.

The plane's engine sputtered and died over the busy Mayfair section and hundreds of residents watching the pilot attempt a landing in Broad Frankford Ave., and plummet into the street.

Murdered Actress Had Cash, Bonds

NEW YORK, July 11—(P)—Several thousand dollars in cash and bonds belonging to Mrs. Sheila Manning were found in a bank safety deposit box late yesterday by some of the 60 detectives who are seeking the slayer of the 49-year-old onetime film and radio actress.

Although more than 300 persons had been questioned up to today, no arrests had been made.

A key to the safety deposit box was found in the West 57th Street apartment where the attractive blonde's nude body, a sheet tied around her neck and a towel thrust in her mouth, was found Wednesday.

Police Inspector Michael Ledden said that in addition to the cash and bonds, the exact value of which he declined to disclose, the safety deposit box contained a $700 watch and other jewelry.

Police learned also that Mrs. Manning several times had visited a store to break $100 bills, sometimes saying, "look what daddy gave me."

King of Hoboes Has Good Idea on How To Get Peace

CINCINNATI, July 11—(P)—King of the Hoboes Jeff Davis says the upper crust of his organization, the Knights of the Road, is ready to concern itself with "the long delay in establishing world peace."

Talkative Jeff told newsmen the Knights—"they're the really prominent people we have among about a million 'boes on the membership lists"—would have their annual meeting at Windsor, Ont., Sunday, July 13.

"We are going to propose the resignation of all the people who now are serving in any capacity on the United Nations," Jeff said, "unless world peace is all set by Christmas. We feel that those folks have had enough time. Let some others have a go at it."

Tax Cut Is Urged By Manufacturers

WASHINGTON, July 11—(P)—A $6,000,000,000 cut in individual income taxes and a 50 per cent limit on taxation of big earnings was proposed to Congress today by the National Association of Manufacturers.

Tax rates now reach 85.5 percent on the highest bracket incomes.

Don G. Mitchell, chairman of NAM's taxation committee, told the House ways and means committee the NAM program is designed to insure full production and employment by encouraging investments.

The proposed tax slash would not be in addition to the $4,000,000,000,000 Republican-backed bill now before Congress, but an alternative means of reducing taxes.

Training Opponents Not Heard, Complaint

WASHINGTON, July 11—(P)—Opponents of universal military training complained today that the House armed services committee is trying to keep them from being heard.

Frederick J. Libby, executive secretary of the national council for prevention of war, said in a statement there are signs the committee wants to "railroad" a training bill through Congress at this session.

U. S. Military Supplies on Way To Equip Greeks for 'Bandit' War

WASHINGTON, July 11—(P)—500,000 to train Greek nationals. Dwight Griswold of the American aid mission to Greece, said today military supplies valued at $35,000,000 already are en route to equip the Greek army and navy on an "anti-bandit" basis.

Griswold told a news conference the equipment now moving to U. S. ports for shipment is largely from United States army and navy surplus. It includes light mountain pack artillery, mules, food for troops, ammunition, and some trucks and jeeps.

Shipments of military supplies, scheduled to comprise half the $300,000,000 aid program, probably will continue into the fall, Griswold said.

Describing the efforts to maintain security as an essential part of economic recovery, Griswold said that "it would be hard to build a bridge and have it blown up right away."

"We believe the reconstruction program will help break up the guerrilla bands, he added.

In the first break-down of aid plans, Griswold said that it is proposed to spend about $19,000,000 for agricultural rehabilitation, $48,000,000 for rebuilding ports, highways and industry, $75,000,000 for food, clothing and other civilian goods, $3,000,000 to cope with malaria, tuberculosis and other health problems, and $1-million to train Greek nationals. "The mission will make use of international organizations as far as possible" (Please Turn To Page Two)

WARREN, July 11—(P)—Damage to a 64-foot bridge which collapsed across Stratton Creek was estimated at $40,000 today by county engineers. A heavily loaded truck was believed responsible.

East-West Rift in Europe Widens On Eve of Conference On U. S. Aid

PARIS, July 11—(P)—The east-west rift in Europe widened today on the eve of a continental recovery conference as Russia's Red Army lined up with her in a boycott of the meeting, called by Britain and France.

Fourteen nations had accepted invitations to join the two sponsors in consultation on the Marshall plan to begin at 11 A. M. (5 A. M., Eastern Standard Time) tomorrow.

Of the non-participating countries, Czechoslovakia had said earlier this week she would attend the conference, but last night announced she had changed her mind because "acceptance of the invitation might be construed as an action against the Soviet Union."

Of the 22 nations invited, only Finland had made no official statement. Stockholm reported last night that a Helsinki dispatch said Finland's government would meet at 2 P. M. (7 A. M., Eastern Standard Time) today to give its reply.

But early today the Moscow radio, heard in London, said, "it has been disclosed in Helsinki that the Finnish government passed yesterday a unanimous decision on the necessity to reject" the conference invitation.

The announcement in Prague said the entire cabinet had approved the decision. The cabinet had been in session six hours after a telephone call from communist Premier Klement Gottwald in Moscow. Gottwald night before last saw Soviet Prime Minister Stalin.

The lineup on tomorrow's conference: Out—Russia, Czechoslovakia, Poland, Yugoslavia, Hungary, Romania, Bulgaria and Albania.

Granges Will Initiate Large Class At Xenia

Many From Fayette County Will Be Included

Granges throughout Fayette County are making plans for taking a large class of candidates to Xenia July 25 conferring the sixth degree by officers of the Ohio State Grange, Loren D. Hynes, state deputy master, said today.

Fayette Grange will hold the last Grange meeting in the county before the Xenia meeting, at Memorial Hall July 17, and candidates from all six subordinate Granges will take the obligations in the first four degrees at this meeting.

Fayette Grange will have almost 20 candidates and each of the other five Granges are expected to have about this number. At least one of these Granges will have a special meeting to ballot on candidates and possibly others will do the same.

Robert Terhune of Fayette Grange, will give the obligations in the first degree; Nelson Kelley of Marshall Grange will give the second; Winfred Morgan of Forest Shade Grange will give the third and Lewis M. Parrett of Madison Good Will Grange will give the fourth.

On the same evening in Memorial Hall, the Pomona Grange will hold a special meeting to confer the obligations of the fifth degree. Ralph Nisley, past deputy master, or W. W. Montgomery, master of the Pomona Degree team, will give the fifth degree obligations.

Refreshments will be served and each family has been asked to bring a pie.

Farm Outlook

"A good deal" was said about the farm outlook, including a rather more optimistic view of the corn crop prospects than the 2,612,809,000 bushels forecast last night by the department of agriculture, Ross said.

He Told Reporters:

"Undersecretary Dodd called attention to the fact that the growing weather of the last two weeks, since the corn survey was made, have been favorable.

"The wheat outlook also is better than at the time of the wheat crop report two weeks ago, when a harvest of 1,400,000,000 bushels was forecast."

Officials have been gravely concerned at the unfavorable corn outlook, fearing it would force increases in the price of grain, livestock and meat. A bumper wheat crop is in prospect.

Steel Price Hike Looms

Coal operators are almost unanimous in predicting that steel prices will rise, and Senator Taft (R-Ohio) has forecast a price boost of about $1.10 a ton.

The magazine Iron Age, a close reporter on steel developments, this week forecast a $5 a ton increase in steel—based partly on the coal settlement, the impact of wage settlements earlier this spring with the CIO steel workers, and the fact that the industry still is

Dr. Emerson P. Schmidt of the United States Chamber of Commerce told a congressional hearing Wednesday that he believes the coal settlement is inflationary and will touch off a general demand for higher wages.

Lewis obtained a 44½-cent hourly wage increase for soft coal miners and a 17½-cent raise for anthracite miners.

The difference comes from a reduction in the soft coal miner's working day from nine to eight hours and absorption in his basic hourly rate of daily work for which he formerly received premium pay.

$1.20 A Day Increase

Actually, both the bituminous and anthracite miners got an increase in the daily wages they will take home of $1.20 a day. On the soft coal eight-hour day this figures out to exactly 15 cents an hour, or the same amount CIO unions won in steel and other industries.

For the seven-hour day work by the hard coal miner the $1.20 pay increase is 17½ cents an hour.

But Lewis succeeded also in boosting his union's health and welfare fund "take" in both bituminous and anthracite from a nickel a ton of coal produced to a dime a ton.

The new labor law provides for equal labor-management administration of union welfare funds except those set up in contracts already in effect when the law was enacted.

Englishwoman On Visit Here Likes America

Miss Audrey Megson In U.S. for Stay of Several Months

"Everyone here is so kind and hospitable," said Miss Audrey Megson of Chester, England, after six weeks in the United States when she arrived here Thursday for a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Olinger and daughter Barbara Jo.

Miss Megson met Mr. Olinger while he was stationed in Littlecove, England, near Hungerford. Miss Megson was head of the YMCA servicemen's canteen, located in a 14th century manor house, which had been appropriated by the government for the canteen.

The most impressive thing about America to Miss Megson was being able to walk into a store of any kind and buy anything without ration coupons or standing in "queues". The abundance of milk also impressed Miss Megson, who is accustomed to having only a small amount every week.

Miss Megson waited 18 months before obtaining passage to the United States. She arrived in New York six weeks ago on the Mauritania. She said the crossing was so rough that even the stewardesses were ill.

She has been in New Hampshire during the first part of her stay and expects to go back there and spend the fall months. She said she has heard that autumn in New England is lovely.

Miss Megson has a number of friends here, some of whom she met while operating the canteen and others whom she knew while studying in Paris before the war.

Although she had only been here a day, Miss Megson dubbed Washington C. H. "a charming place."

Mrs. S. D. Turner Claimed By Death

Mrs. Marie A. Turner, 62, widow of S. D. Turner, who died here in 1934, passed away in the Lakeside Hospital, Cleveland, Thursday afternoon, death coming suddenly.

Mrs. Turner had been making her home with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Tong, in Cleveland, the past two years, and prior to that had resided here for many years. She was a native of Bohemia. Her husband was connected with the Sunlight Creameries here for many years.

Her daughter and a grandson are the only survivors in this country. Mrs. Turner was a member of the First Presbyterian Church here and of the Royal Neighbors Lodge.

Funeral services will be held Monday at 2 P. M. at the Cox and Parrett Funeral Home, and interment will be made beside her husband in the Washington C. H. Cemetery. Rev. John K. Abernethy will conduct the services.

Friends may call at the funeral home at any time.

Membership in this club is open to anyone who is interested in taking motion pictures.

regarded as "non-controversial" will be speeded to completion. Missing from this list were bills for housing, cash terminal pay for veterans, the St. Lawrence seaway project and increasing the national hourly minimum wage scale.

But Taft, in answer to queries about these, said they may get congressional approval if it can be agreed to act "without long debate."

Taft listed these measures for action following tax and appropriation legislation:

President Truman's reorganization plan No. 3 to establish a central housing and home finance agency. This was rejected June 18 by the House but the Senate banking committee has recommended approval. Taft said he will support it. Both the Senate and House must reject a presidential reorganization plan to defeat it.

A Senate bill to increase subsistence allowances to veterans who are studying under the G. I. bill of rights.

A Senate bill to authorize continued purchase of automobiles for blind and amputee veterans.

A House-approved resolution that would allow citizens of Puerto Rico to elect their governor. Currently he is nominated by the president and confirmed by the Senate.

A Senate resolution to extend the wartime safety codes for mines.

A House-approved measure freezing social security taxes at 1 percent each for employers and employees. Unless this is approved the taxes would rise to 2½ percent.

Crops and Meat

The corn crop which is the basic raw material for meat, dairy and poultry products—was forecast at 2,612,809,000 bushels. This compares with last year's record of 3,287,927,000, the government's goal of 3,000,000,000 bushels and a ten-year average of 2,639,927,000.

Officials said a crop of around 2,850,000,000 bushels of good quality corn would be needed to maintain meat production at the present level of 153 pounds a year on each consumer.

A crop of the size indicated, officials said, would require a cut in meat production of about 10 percent, or about 15 pounds per consumer. This still, however, would leave supplies at about 138 pounds per person compared with the pre-war average of 126 pounds.

Officials still holding hopes for a harvest of at least 2,850,000,000 bushels, they noted that acreage planted to corn is only 4.9 percent below last year when the record crop was produced, despite adverse planting season weather.

Grain experts said that if corn gets a "good break" on the weather during the remainder of the summer and is not caught by an early frost before it has matured, the crop could easily reach 3,000,000,000 bushels. In that event, there would need be no reduction in livestock production.

The department's forecast was based on conditions prevailing July 1, a time when floods still darkened the outlook. It did not take into account improved weather during the first 10 days of July.

Offsetting to a degree the rather gloomy corn forecast was a prediction that the wheat crop will exceed last month's record figure of 1,409,000,000 bushels by 25,000,000 bushels. The wheat supply will be sufficient to allow large exports and permit some to be used for livestock feed, if necessary.

as possible," Griswold said. "We will proceed with the idea that the project may eventually be taken over by the United Nations, as recommended by the U. N. food and agricultural organizations."

Cost estimates supplied the House appropriations committee thus far, Griswold said, have had to be "somewhat loose," because of the need to make flexible decisions.

Asked about criticisms of these estimates voiced by Committee Chairman, Taber (R-N.Y.), Griswold said: "I feel it would be a mistake in the field of international politics to reduce the program, as such an action would be accepted all over the world as a softening of our policy."

Griswold, former Republican governor of Nebraska, said he plans to leave by plane for Athens Sunday.

Grain Markets

CHICAGO, July 11—(AP)—Wheat futures leaped the 10 cents a bushel limit today and July corn climbed to another new all-time high in heavy buying influenced by reports that the government had raised its price for southwestern wheat for export.

Wheat at Kansas City and Minneapolis also advanced today. At times, there were reactions from the best levels in all three futures markets.

September, December and May wheat, and all corn deliveries advanced to new season highs. July corn reached $2.21, compared with the alltime high of $2.17½ set early this week.

Oats also were strong, climbing with corn, which in turn was influenced by the wheat action.

Chicago wheat closed 7½ and 9½ cents higher than the previous finish, July $2.39½-2.40; corn was up 2½ to 4½ cents, July $2.17½-2.18, and oats were ahead 1½ to 3½ cents, July $1.01½-1.02.

Financial Market

NEW YORK, July 11—(AP)—Persistent demand for steels and special issues today put the stock market's industrial average at another new high for the year although selling on the lengthy upswing restrained many leaders.

A stiff wage boost in the hard coal field, on top of the recent pay hike for bituminous miners, accentuated inflation psychology as a buying argument.

Dealings speeded up in the forenoon but subsequently tapered as offerings appeared.

Luxury Or Necessity?

Representatives of nations where there is no freedom of the press and where the people enjoy no privileges of personal liberty have often remarked that the American system of individual freedom is a luxury only a rich nation may afford. This is a flimsy excuse for the brutalities of dictatorship. But would we be so different from these other nations which are tobogganing back into the dark ages, if we were hard pressed by economic chaos? Not if we are to listen to some of our most notable, self-styled liberals who claim with fearful urgency that should another depression descend upon America, she too would abandon the "luxury" of freedom. Some of them would even jump the gun by setting up a planned state now—fixing prices, rigging supply and demand to artificial standards, controlling production, and in effect, establishing government as a spurious God.

When this country was founded, the going was tough. Freedom was the first goal of life. It was not achieved easily. The privilege of going to the church of one's choice was not considered a luxury, nor was ownership of property and the right of assembly and free speech. These things were as vital as air. To infer, no matter how indirectly, that they have become luxuries at a time when millions of people over the whole world are looking to the United States to keep alight the torch of civilization, is inexcusable.

Very likely there will be depressions in this country in the future, as in the past. They can either be short pauses in the march forward of a great nation—or any one of them can be the jumping-off point for state socialism and the subjugation of the people. It will depend upon our point of view—whether our freedom is a luxury or a necessity.

The Ultimate Challenge

It has been said that hunger and cold are Communism's most efficient allies. That aphorism underlies the present United States foreign policy, with its emphasis on material aid to nations threatened by Soviet diplomatic and economic aggression.

France is a perfect example of this. France must have two basic materials from the United States—and if she doesn't get them from us, the way will be paved for complete descent into totalitarianism. One of the commodities is wheat—France's own crop will be only about one-fifth of her normal prewar crop. The other commodity is coal—and, to quote a Life editorial, "Coal for France means the difference between just getting by and utter industrial collapse."

Fortunately, the United States will have a bumper wheat crop this year, and filling France's requirements will not be an excessive drain. Coal, however, is another matter. We have plenty of it in the ground. But it cannot be used to aid France or to serve ourselves unless the miners get it out. To quote Life once more, "The man who burns coal in Main Street must understand why he must conserve just as clearly as John L. Lewis must understand the necessity of avoiding a coal strike." If we fail to deliver the coal, we will be playing straight into the hands of the Communists. If France ever enters the Soviet orbit, the iron curtain will soon cover all of Europe.

What this amounts to is that American materials are now a diplomatic weapon. If the greatest democratic power in the world cannot succor distressed peoples, stricken nations will turn to the greatest dictatorship in the world, and the cause of human freedom will be irretrievably damaged. Here is the ultimate challenge to American industry—and to American labor.

Music For Everybody

Rapidly becoming an American institution are summer time's Pop concerts. The idea is not entirely new. Grandma remembers the little band that used to play in the park of her small town Thursday evenings years ago. But these are different. In some cities the regular symphony orchestras, their personnel somewhat changed, give the programs. Sometimes they are held in parks. Open-air amphitheaters are increasingly pleasant in these days of insect control. Stars twinkle down and cooling breezes blow on audiences listening to sweet harmonies.

Programs are given also in municipal halls with tables arranged for soft drinks and ice cream dispensed between numbers. Gone is the winter-time stuffiness for concert-goers who then must wear their best bib and tucker, sit straight and stiff in formal seats.

Selections by the musicians are correspondingly less serious. Sousa's The Stars and Stripes Forever, Gershwin's Rhapsody in Blue are at their best in such settings. Audiences like also a polka from Shostakovich, the Ride of the Valkyries from Wagner's stirring score. Even a Toccata and Fugue of Bach goes over well, for the summer concert goers are music-lovers.

America, like all adolescents, has tended to be over serious about its culture. In Europe music, in the form of good classic selections, has been as integral a part of beer halls as the beer. Music is close to the people. The present popularity of summer popular concerts promises to bring music into the everyday lives of Americans, too.

Alas and alack! How long now will it be until we Americans imagine flying saucers coming at us edgewise? And how many million split cups of coffee may be involved before the world settles down to normal again?

If American boys studied as hard as they play, intellectual supermen would be a glut on the market.

The Chinese are now being wholesomely warned that the Russian Reds are bad medicine, but will they take the tip in time?

Russia might be all right if she would just stop shoving other people around.

Planning Diet Low in Salt

By HERMAN N. RUNDSEEN, M.D.

A SALT-RESTRICTED diet does not mean just going easy with the salt shaker. Many of our ordinary foods in their natural state contain liberal amounts of salt. One of these is milk. Others are barley, lima beans, and onions.

Naturally this poses a real problem for people who have been directed to hold down their consumption of salt to a minimum, as often happens in cases of high blood pressure. Some doctors believe that for patients of this type a well-balanced diet without any particular restrictions other than avoidance of over-eating is best.

Salt Intake Restricted

On the other hand, Dr. Arthur Grollman, of the Northwestern Medical College, thinks that if the blood pressure is to be lowered and the symptoms relieved, the amount of salt in the diet must be restricted to a great degree so that the daily amount does not exceed five-tenths or one-half of a gram. One level standard teaspoon contains approximately 4 grams, so this amount of salt would be about one-eighth of a teaspoonful.

The difficulty which arises in planning such a diet is to furnish enough protein without using foods which are high in salt content. Dr. Grollman suggests substituting powdered milk which has much less salt, for the ordinary kind. When milk is dried to make powdered milk, some of the salt is lost from it. There are a number of other foods which he says should be avoided. These include all salted foods, such as smoked meats, bacon, ham, pretzels, salted butter, olives.

The composition of foods is so complicated and the whole problem of maintaining the body on a salt-restricted diet is so intricate, it is obvious that anyone employing such a diet should be under the care of a physician who knows how to watch and regulate all the factors involved.

DO SOMETHING

Do something for somebody somewhere.

While jogging along life's road; Help someone to carry his burden.

And lighter will grow your load.

Do something for somebody, gladly.

Twirl sweeten your every care; In sharing the sorrows of others Your own are less hard to bear.

Do something for somebody, striving

To help where the way seems long;

And the sorrowful hearts that languish

Cheer up with a little song.

Do something for somebody always,

Whatever may be your creed— There's nothing on earth can help you

So much as a kindly deed.

SYNOPSIS

Among the week-end guests Lady Lucy Angkatell had invited to The Hollow were attractive Dr. John Christow and his dull, plain-looking wife, Gerda. The others, all members of the Angkatell clan, were: kindly Henrietta Saveruake, successful sculptress; young Midge Hardcastle, who supported herself by working in one of London's swank dress shops; David Angkatell, university student; and quiet Edward Angkatell, whose unrequited love of Henrietta made him unaware that Midge had long adored him. Unknown to anyone, Henrietta and John Christow had fallen deeply in love. Prior to leaving for Lucy's, John said in his Harley Street office, trying to rathom the mood of discontent which engulfed him, while upstairs, Gerda and the children patiently awaited his appearance for lunch. His thoughts went back to an earlier chapter in his life, when he had been madly in love with glamorous Veronica, a noted picture actress. He had broken their engagement when she refused to give up her career, and later had married Gerda, whose pliant devotion had left him free to pursue his beloved profession. In Henrietta he had found the intelligent understanding which Gerda lacked. Recently, when charged with a difficult session with old Mrs. Crabtree, his favorite clinic patient, he had stopped off at her studio. He was annoyed, however, when he recognized Gerda as the model used for Henrietta's latest masterpiece, The Worshiper. Meanwhile, in the dining room, Gerda contemplated the cooling roast, and the coming week-end, with equal despair. She did not like the Angkatells and felt awkward and uncomfortable in their company. John's arrival banished her unhappy thoughts. While Gerda packed, their small daughter, Zena, insisted on telling John's fortune with cards. When she solemnly announced the queen of hearts still held power over him, he immediately thought of Veronica, whom he had not seen for fifteen years. At The Hollow, Lucy's husband, Sir Henry, chats with Midge about Almswick, Edward's estate. Henrietta arrives. In time for lunch, and later accepts Edward's invitation to take a stroll.

CHAPTER TWELVE

EDWARD'S VOICE changed a little.

"Do you want to be peaceful, Henrietta?"

"Sometimes I think I want to be peaceful more than anything in the world, Edward."

"You could be peaceful at Almswick. . . . I think you could be happy there. Even—even if you had to put up with me. What about it, Henrietta? Won't you come to Almswick and make it your home? It's always been there, you know, waiting for you."

Henrietta turned her head slowly. She said in a low voice:

"I wish I wasn't so dreadfully fond of you, Edward. It makes it so very much harder to go on saying no."

"Is no, then?"

"I'm sorry."

"You've said it no before—but this time—well, I thought it might be different. You've been happy this afternoon, Henrietta. You can't deny that."

"I've been very happy."

"Your face even—it's younger than it was this morning."

"I know."

"We've been happy together, talking about Almswick, thinking about Almswick. Don't you see what that means, Henrietta?"

"It's you who don't see what it means, Edward! We've been living all this afternoon in the past."

"The past is sometimes a very good place to live."

"One can't go back. That's the one thing one can't do—go back."

He was silent for a minute or two. Then he said in a quiet, pleasant and quite unemotional voice:

"What you really mean is that you won't marry me because of John Christow."

Henrietta did not answer, and Edward went on:

"That's it, isn't it? If there were no John Christow in the world you would marry me."

Henrietta said harshly, "I can't imagine a world in which there was no John Christow! That's what you've got to understand."

"If it's like that, why on earth doesn't the fellow get a divorce from his wife and then you could marry?"

"John doesn't want to get a divorce from his wife. And I don't know that I should want to marry John if he did. It isn't—I can't like him."

Edward said in a thoughtful, considering way:

"John Christow. . . . There are too many John Christows in this world. . . ."

"You're wrong," said Henrietta. "There are very few people like John. . . ."

"If that's so—it's a good thing! At least, that's what I think!"

He got up. "We'd better go back again."

As they got into the car and Lewis shut the front door of the Harley Street house, Gerda felt the pang of exile go through her. That shut door was so final. She was barred out—this awful week-end was upon her. And there were things, quite a lot of things, that she ought to have done before leaving. Had she turned off that note for the laundry—she'd put it—where had she put it? Would the children be all right with Mademoiselle? Mademoiselle was so—so— Would Terence, for instance, ever do anything that Mademoiselle told him to? French governesses never seemed to have any authority.

She got into the driving seat, still bowed down by misery, and nervously pressed the starter. She pressed it again and again. John said, "The car will start better, Gerda, if you switch on the engine."

"Oh, dear, how stupid of me!"

She shot a quick alarmed glance at him. If John was going to be annoyed straight away— But to her relief he was smiling.

That's because, thought Gerda, with one of her flashes of acumen, he's so pleased to be going to the Angkatells.

Poor John, he worked so hard! His life was so unselfish, so completely devoted to others. No wonder he looked forward to this long week-end. And, her mind harking back to the conversation at lunch, she said, as she let in the clutch rather too suddenly so that the car leaped forward from the curb:

"You know, John, you really shouldn't make jokes about hating sick people. It's wonderful of you to make light of all you do, and I understand. But the children don't, Terry, in particular, has such a very literal mind."

"There are times," said John Christow, "when Terry seems to me almost human—not like Zena! How long do girls go on being a mass of affection?"

Gerda gave a little, quite sweet laugh. John, she knew, was teasing her. She stuck to her point. Gerda had an adhesive mind.

"I really think, John, that it's good for children to realize the unselfishness and devotion of a doctor's life."

"Oh Lord!" said Christow.

Gerda was momentarily deflected. The traffic lights she was approaching had been green for a long time. They were almost sure, she thought, to change before she got to them. She began to slow down. . . . Still green.

John Christow forgot his resolutions of keeping silent about Gerda's driving and said, "What are you stopping for?"

"I thought the lights might change—"

She pressed her foot on the accelerator, the car moved forward a little, just beyond the lights, then, unable to pick up, the engine stalled. The lights changed.

The cross traffic hooted angrily. John said, but quite pleasantly: "You really are the worst driver in the world, Gerda!"

"I always find traffic lights so worrying. One doesn't know just when they are going to change."

John cast a quick sideways look at Gerda's anxious, unhappy face. Everything worries Gerda, he thought, and tried to imagine what it must feel like to live in that state. But since he was not a man of much imagination, he could not picture it at all.

"You see," Gerda stuck to her point, "I've always impressed on the children just what a doctor's life is—the self-sacrifice, the dedication of oneself to helping pain and suffering—the desire to serve others. It's such a noble life—and I'm so proud of the way you give your time and energy and never spare yourself—"

John Christow interrupted her.

"Hasn't it ever occurred to you that I like doctoring—that it's a pleasure, not a sacrifice! Don't you realize that the blamed thing's interesting?"

But no, he thought, Gerda would never realize a thing like that! If he told her about Mrs. Crabtree and the Margaret Russell Ward she would only see him as a kind of angelic helper of the Poor with a capital P.

"Drowning in treacle," he said under his breath.

"What?" Gerda leaned toward him.

He shook his head.

If he were to tell Gerda that he was trying to "find a cure for cancer," she would respond—she could understand a plain sentimental statement. But she would never understand the peculiar fascination of the intricacies of Ridgeway's disease—he doubted if he could ever make her understand what Ridgeway's disease actually was. (Particularly, he thought with a grin, as we're not really quite sure ourselves! We don't really know why the cortex degenerates!)

But it occurred to him suddenly that Terence, child though he was, might be interested in Ridgeway's disease. He had liked the way that Terence had eyed him appraisingly before stating: "I think Father does mean it."

Terence had been out of favor the last few days for breaking the Cora coffee machine—some nonsense about trying to make ammonia. . . . Ammonia? Funny kid, why should he want to make ammonia? Interesting in a way.

Gerda was relieved at John's silence. She could cope with driving better if she were not distracted by conversation. Besides, if John was absorbed in thought, he was not so likely to notice that jarring noise of her occasional forced changes of gear.

A Letter from Washington

By Jane Eads

WASHINGTON — Dr. Albert Kendrick Fisher, first chief of the U. S. Biological Survey, says he is the man who discovered you could eat rattlesnake meat and live.

That was long before they started canning the stuff and selling it for $1 a pound.

Dr. Fisher, who recently celebrated his 92nd birthday eating roast beef at the historic Cosmos Club with a group of cronies, says rattlesnake meat is okay when you haven't got anything else and you're starving.

Let the gourmets have it, says he. He prefers roast canvas-back duck, which feeds on eelgrass and has a much superior flavor.

"It's not bad eating," says he. "I don't like white meat of any kind, and I think chicken is poor, but I'm willing to eat the dark meat of turkey on Thanksgiving."

Dr. Fisher retired from government service after 46 years in 1931.

It was in 1890 when Dr. Fisher, heading a party of six, got two weeks ahead of the chuck wagons out in Death Valley in California.

When they got to the starving point the party reasoned that anything alive was food, so they dished themselves up some rattlesnakes, lizards and other items, like skunk cabbage.

Dr. Fisher says some Indians may have eaten rattlesnake meat before then, but he's sure no whitman ever tackled it.

"What do you want to know all this for?" Dr. Fisher asked me.

"Women are so curious. But some are interesting and some are full of the devil."

Dr. Fisher says he hates to see women smoking. He says women who smoke can't have healthy children.

Nor does he like the way women stain their fingernails and drink cocktails.

"And those high, four-inch heels they wear are just ruining their ankles. Nature didn't mean them to walk only on the fronts of their feet," he says.

"I think eating in the middle of the afternoon is an accused habit, too," Dr. Fisher commented.

"What do you like?" I asked.

"Women," said Dr. Fisher with a chuckle.

Rules Regarding Rent Increases Are Explained

No Further Control Of Rents After December 31

The effects and provisions of the new Housing and Rent Act of 1947, which became effective July 1, are beginning to crystallize today, said Gene Smith, area rent representative, as he pointed out some of the clarifications of the law issued recently by the Office of the Housing Expediter in Columbus, headed by Edward F. Wagner, rent director.

Wagner pointed out, said Smith, that a lease enabling a landlord to increase a tenant's rent 15 percent under the new regulations must be a voluntary agreement entered into in good faith by both parties and contain an expiration date on or after December 31, 1948. The lease should be filed with the Area Rent Office within 15 days after its execution together with forms supplied by his office, Smith said.

In order to make the lease valid, Smith declared, the Columbus office points out that it must not contain an option on the part of the landlord to terminate the lease at will, although the tenant is allowed such an option.

The landlord has valid claims for termination only in case of non-payment of rent, commission of a nuisance or destruction of the accommodations "by an act of God."

Regarding rent increases, Smith pointed out, the Columbus office states an increase of not more than 15 percent may be made where the tenant and the landlord enter into such a lease voluntarily, otherwise, if no lease is signed or the tenant is unwilling, the maximum rent on the accommodations is the same as that in effect on June 30, 1947 as modified by any subsequent order of the rent director.

The Columbus office warns, said Smith, that the lease must not contain an escalator clause which provides for a rent increase to take effect after December 31, 1948, which is more than the rent for the period prior to January 1, 1949.

After December 31, 1947, the law provides that all housing accommodations for which valid leases are filed shall be decontrolled, he said. Those accommodations which were decontrolled on and after July 1, it was stated, include all motor courts; tourist homes serving transit guests exclusively; new construction and conversions completed after February 1, 1947 except for certain units constructed under the Veterans Emergency Housing Program; units not rented between February 1, 1945 and January 31, 1947, all accommodations in hotels and other establishments except those occupied on June 30, 1947 by persons not provided with customary hotel services such as maid service; furnishing and laundering of linen, telephone and secretarial or desk service use, upkeep of furniture and fixtures and bellboy service and all self-contained dwelling units in any establishment in which the total number of self-contained dwelling units including kitchen and bathrooms rented on June 30, 1947, for other than a daily term was 75 percent more of the total number of units in the establishment.

11 Get Virus Pneumonia

CINCINNATI, July 11—(AP)—Eleven city employees were hospitalized today for treatment for virus pneumonia.

The employees, all men, were believed by attending physicians to have picked up the disease while cleaning an old water tower in Eden Park nearly two weeks ago.

Labor-Management Troubles Laid to Economic Illiteracy

NEW YORK, July 11—(AP)—The average American has little knowledge of the facts of business life, and the resultant "economic illiteracy" is a constant source of labor-management friction, Research Institute of America, Inc., said today.

For this condition, William J. Casey, chairman of the institute's board of editors, said the business community itself was mainly responsible.

"It has not got across to the public a proper understanding of the part that management, investment, profits and dividends play in building living standards," he declared.

Recent public opinion surveys, he continued, show that 60 percent of the public think that corporate profits exceed 25 cents out of every sales dollar.

"Many of these are annoyed because profits are so high. They feel that 10 percent would be a fair profit."

They might have an entirely different attitude if there was a widespread understanding that profits over the years average under 4 cents out of every sales dollar, in good years run up to 6 cents, while in bad years go down to 2 cents or even disappear.

"The survey shows that most workers think that out of every corporate dollar spent for wages, salaries and dividends, 75 cents goes either to management or stockholders.

"The fact that after paying for materials and all other outside bills, workers get 87 cents and management about 13 cents in dividends and reserves out of every dollar that is left," Casey declared.

In prepared statements followed by informal discussions of the effects of the Taft-Hartley Law, institute editors predicted a year of unrest.

"Legislation is no substitute for sound human relations," they said. "The most it can do is define machinery for relationships, but it can never create or define the content of those relationships."

A law may forbid a worker to walk out on his job, but it cannot make him happy and productive on the job."

Evictions Soar In Northern Ohio

COLUMBUS, July 11—(AP)—Ohio's "E—for eviction—days" are most likely to appear in August rather than July.

An Associated Press survey of eviction suits filed in state courts since OPA rent controls were relaxed July 1 today showed only Cleveland, Ohio's largest city, with a soaring number of landowners seeking to get their tenants out of present living quarters.

The northeastern metropolis found its municipal court swamped yesterday with 2,000 new suits on file, bringing to 4,000 the total eviction actions initiated since July 1.

Elsewhere the situation was approximately normal and eviction court judges contended this was based chiefly on the fact most landlords must give 30-days notice before the state's three-day eviction machinery can start moving.

Lovely Luncheon Bridge Given At Country Club On Thursday Afternoon

Another beautiful party was added to the social calendar and the Washington Country Club was the perfect setting, when Mrs. M. J. Whitfield, Mrs. Robert Edge, Mrs. James Summers, Mrs. Frank Michael and Mrs. Howard Fogle combined hospitalities for a perfectly appointed luncheon-bridge on Thursday, and their charming courtesies were extended to nearly one hundred guests.

White pottery vases centered with red, white and blue flowers graced the centers of each of the long tables seating the guests for the tempting three course luncheon, each cover marked with fluffy feather fans in the predominating colors alternating at each place and were the clever handiwork of the hostesses.

Sailing Class Given to 24 At U of Miami

Students Get Phys Ed Credit For Ocean Course

MIAMI, Fla., — Sailing through a college course in an actuality at the University of Miami.

Started last February with Vernon Cordry, who took up sailing as a hobby 22 years ago on Biscayne Bay, the class has attracted 24 students, including a number of co-eds.

There are no dull, drab classroom walls for these students, but blue sky and the waters of Biscayne Bay. There is no textbook, no blackboard, no classroom formality.

Prof. Cordry comes to class in navy-blue shorts, a sweat shirt and sneakers. The girls toss the "no slacks for classes" ruling overboard and comes not only in slacks, but even bathing suits, dungarees or shorts; and the boys wear faded dungarees.

The school allows three credits for the class to students majoring in physical education.

Every Tuesday and Thursday afternoons, the 24 students trek six miles to the Mattewson docks on Biscayne Bay. They hoist the job and mainsail, collect their life preservers and climb aboard one of the four boats.

Cordry says the greatest danger in sailing is a sudden puff of wind—the quick plover that creeps up like a kitten. Of the two methods of meeting these puffs, he says, the first is to throw the boat's head up towards the winds just enough to ease the mainsail.

One way to guard against tipping too far or getting a knock down is to avoid sailing too close in the lee of large vessels.

Ohio U. Branches To Operate Again

ATHENS, July 11—(P)—President John C. Baker of Ohio University said today that the college's three branches at Portsmouth, Chillicothe and Zanesville would be operated again during the 1947-48 academic year.

Baker reported plans would be made to accommodate nearly 1,000 students at off-campus schools, an increase of 141 over last year.

Reappointed as assistant directors under director of branches A. C. Gubitz, were Ralph Elliott at Portsmouth, Thomas J. Vernia at Chillicothe, and Ellis B. Miracle at Zanesville, Baker said.

Centenarian Sad; Can't Go to Fair

MCCONNELSVILLE, July 11—(P)—As she started her 100th year today, Mrs. Amanda Smith's chief regret is that she can't get out to county fairs and see some good horse races.

So prize fight broadcasts now are her chief delight, she says.

Mrs. Smith, who was born in a log cabin July 9, 1847, has survived two civil war veteran husbands and has one daughter, four grandchildren, eight great grandchildren and 16 great great grandchildren living.

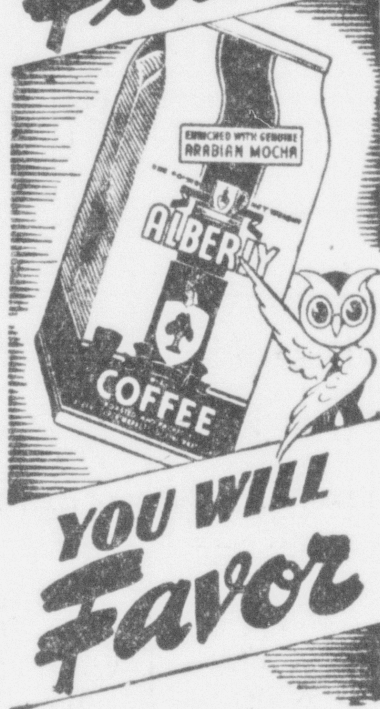

Trip Around World In Yawl Started

SAN PEDRO, Calif., July 11—(P)—The 34-foot yawl Islander pointed westward toward the open sea today in Harry Pidgeon's third attempt to circumnavigate the world.

On his two previous trips the 78-year-old former Iowa farmer, who learned sailing on the Mississippi River, went alone, then he was single. This time he is taking along his wife, Margaret 53, and a friend, Vera Rideout of Chelan, Wash.

U. S. grain harvesting starts late in May in Texas and reaches the Dakotas in August; the Canadian harvest is later.

Three Die In Fire In Mountain Cabin

STONEWALL, Colo., July 11—(P)—Three small children died in flames which quickly destroyed a three-room mountain cabin here last night after the explosion of a kerosene stove.

The victims were John McCoy, 6, and his baby brother, David, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Mack McCoy of Amarillo, Tex., and Dixie Sue Conger, 4, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Deroy Conger of Stonewall.

County Given Control Of Hospitalization Fund

DAYTON, July 11—(P)—County commissioners and not community chests should directly control administration of funds from tax levies to pay for "free care" hospitalization, the state auditor's office ruled in a finding against Montgomery County.

Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson yesterday ordered resident State Examiner Carl Wagner to transfer administration of the one-mill levy from the community chest to county jurisdiction.

Motor travel in 1946 totaled 170,000,000,000 miles, according to the Public Roads Administration.

No-Hitter Black's Reward for Giving Up Liquor; Reformed Indian Hurler Praised by Ex-Boss

CLEVELAND, July 11.—(P)—The motto of the baseball world today should be "hats off to who-ever was responsible" for Don (no-hit) Black joining the Alcoholics Anonymous, declares venerable Connie Mack of the Philadelphia Athletics.

The Cleveland Indians hurler, who soared to diamond fame last night with a 3-0 no-hitter over his former Philadelphia teammates, was "at the end of the baseball trail a year ago—cast off to minors for keeps—before he joined that fine organization," said Black's former boss.

"He pitched a wonderful game," Connie continued, adding with a calm smile, "as we didn't make any runs, I'm rather pleased that he was able to pitch a no-hitter."

"Our Philadelphia boys said his slider was working wonderfully—that's why he was so successful in this game," said the 84-year-old veteran in the soft manner which has earned him recognition as one of the "baseball's gentlemen."

"I was especially glad for Don because—well, you know—he's taking better care of himself these days," Connie smiled, adding this masterful understatement: "He dis-appeared quite a little when he was with us."

"Whoever was responsible for-Don joining the Alcoholics Anonymous—I say 'all hats off' to him."

In the steaming dressing room at the other side of Cleveland's huge stadium, Black was the first to agree with his grey-thatched former manager.

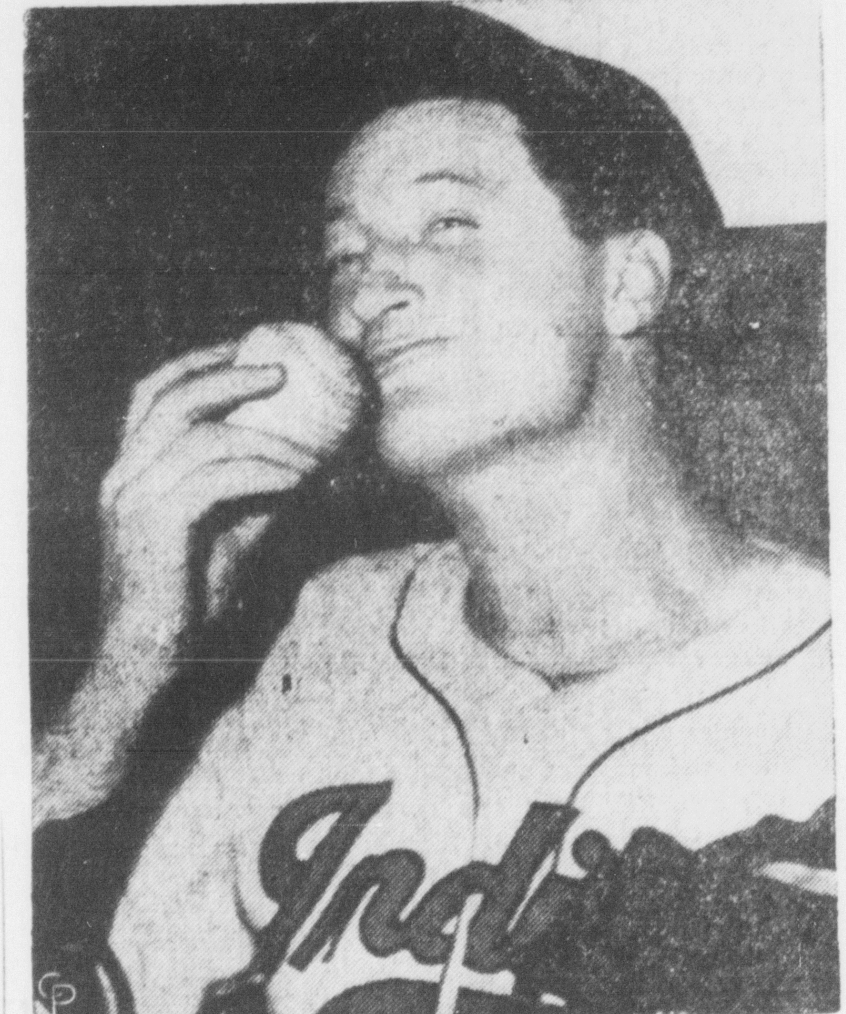

"If it wasn't for joining the A.A.'s," he said, after the first happy moments of celebration had ticked away, "I would have pitched that game."

In hurling the first no-hit, no-run victory in the American League since his teammate, Bob Feller, held the New York Yankees hitless and runless, April 30, 1946, Black faced five A's, issued six passes and faced 32 batters.

Joe (Flash) Gordon moved into a corner of Black's spotlight with a sensational running catch in the third inning which eventually saved the no-hitter. Racing away from the plate when a popper left Elmer Valo's bat, Gordon sped into right field and tucked the ball into his glove at full speed.

The huge crowd of 47,871 fans also gasped momentarily when Tribe centerfielder George Metkovich appeared to miss judge a towering 400-foot drive in time to race back to the wall for a one-handed catch.

"It was the greatest pitch I ever made in my life," was Black's first

DON BLACK of the Cleveland Indians kisses ball that he hurled to a no-hit, 3 to 0 victory over the Athletics in Cleveland stadium. Black, who recently joined Alcoholics Anonymous, pitched two no-hit games while in the minor leagues. (International)

Eagles To Play Doubleheader Here Sunday-- Jeff at Lancaster

Given a break by the inconsiderate weatherman, the Eagles will meet Grove City's Dodgers at Wilson Field here Sunday afternoon in an SCO League baseball doubleheader.

At the same time, Jeffersonville's Cubs, the other Fayette County entry in the eight-team semi-pro circuit, will be playing the Glassman at Lancaster.

Chillicothe's Meads, who won the loop title last year, are booked to tangle with this year's pace-setting Reds at Ashville.

And Pappy Doyle's Athletics are to go from Greenfield to Jamestown to take on the revamped Lions.

With the half-way mark reached on the schedule, SCO League officials today were looking ahead with optimism and backward with considerable satisfaction as the result of last Wednesday night's regular league meeting of more than 75 managers, team sponsors, umpires and officials at the headquarters here.

Pat Donohue, who used to play here with the old Athletics and is now a talent scout for the Pittsburgh Pirates, told the gathering that SCO "gives promise of becoming one of the most highly recognized semi-pro circuits in the country for its development of baseball talent."

Pat's statements, SCO officials pointed out, carry more than ordinary weight because he is in touch with the recruiting policies of all the major league clubs. He is credited with "discovering" the fabulous Bobby Feller and is considered one of the top scouts of the country.

While no attendance figures were given out at headquarters, league officials have said informally that the turnouts all around the circuit have exceeded all expectations. This view was expressed in face of the unusual number of rained out games early in the season.

It was at the Wednesday night meeting that the Jamestown club was revamped and put under a new manager to solve the ineligibility problems that led to the Lions forfeiture of last Sunday's game to the Eagles.

Sports Roundup

NEW YORK, July 11.—(P)—Joe Dimaggio, 11, nephew of the Yankee clouter, is playing American Legion baseball for Galileo Post of San Francisco. At the last report he was hitting .465 but for his habit of stealing four or five bases a game. That's more than Uncle Joe can do. . . Ezzard Charles plans to build his weight up from the normal 173 pounds to around 180 for his venture into heavyweight circles—which still won't make him big enough to fight Joe Louis—Maurice (Rock-ett) Richard, who seldom gets hurt in a rough hockey game, busted his nose recently when he ran into the stands chasing a foul ball while playing baseball. . . Although Auburn's track team produced three Southeastern Conference champions this spring, it was not represented in the National Collegiate A.A. championships. Reason: lack of funds.

Double Feature Here Friday Night

Clearing skies and a bit of sunshine now and then Friday morning virtually assured the playing of the customary double softball feature in the evening at Wilson Field.

In the first game the DP&L and Armbrust teams are to meet in a play-off of Wednesday's postponed game. The natural rivalry

Undefeated Team To Play Good Hope

Good Hope's baseball team today faced the prospect of taking on Sunday not only a team that already has handed it a beating but also one that has racked up 12 victories without a defeat this season.

The undefeated outfit from Bainbridge is slated to come to the Wayne Township capital for a Sunday afternoon game with Tommy Smalley's boys.

A Hillsboro team was to have played at Good Hope last Sunday, but rain interfered.

As usual, Tommy was uncertain which of the Dawes brothers would get the pitching assignment. The selection always is deferred until after the pre-game warm-up to see "how they feel."

Shot in Fight Over Dog

EAST LIVERPOOL, July 11.—George E. Troup was under a 30-day jail sentence today for reportedly firing a revolver at Mrs. Mary Ferline during an argument over a barking dog. The woman was uninjured.

The Class "D" North Atlantic League has four clubs in Pennsylvania, which has a Sunday baseball curfew, and four in New York State, which doesn't. . . So maybe it isn't surprising that an ump called a game in Kingston, N. Y., recently because he remembered a law that teams couldn't start an inning after 6:50 P. M. . . The only thing that puzzles Prexy Ernie Landgraf is how the ump found his way to the right park in the first place.

Fighting Words

When Chicago scribes asked Rocky Graziano how he liked their home town, the Rock replied: "I love it; it's just like Brooklyn." . . That probably means a few thousand more rooters for Tony Zale next week.

Don Black Pitches No-Hit Game; Reds Split Double With Braves

By JACK HAND
 (By The Associated Press)
 Don Black, a reformed character who was "all washed up" a year ago, has eclipsed his famous Cleveland teammate Bobby Feller by pitching the first no-hitter of the American League season.
 The Indians' righthander, whose elbow bending cost him one big league job and sent him suffering off to the minors two seasons, is the No. 1 man of the Cleveland staff—at least for one brief 24-hour period.
 Black's effort was a little spot-has a stopper for today's tilt in the person of Ewell (no-hit) Blackwell.

Blackie will be going after his fifteenth victory of the season and thirteenth in succession. It was against Boston that the lanky right-hander tossed a non-hitter on the night of June 18. Johnny Sain opposed him.
 Babe Young, Cincinnati first sacker, shared the starring role with Lively as he belted a two-run homer, his second circuit blow of the day, to clinch the nightcap victory.
 The former New York Giant's game-winning clout came in the seventh inning with two out and Benny Zientara on first.
Slugging Pitchers
 Lefty Joe Page, the New York Yankees' relief ace, added a new turn to his specialty and batted a ninth-inning home run that sunk the St. Louis Browns, 4-3. Spud Chandler was knocked out in the seventh in the first time he had failed to finish since opening day against the A's, snapping a streak of 13 complete games.
 Page's homer stretched the Yank's win streak to nine and boosted their lead to 8½ games over Detroit and Boston, who played a 2-2 tie game, called at the end of the eighth when the twilight became darkness.
 Washington took both ends of a doubleheader from Chicago, 4-0, behind Early Wynn who registered his 10th win and 7-2 behind Rae Scarborough.
 Brooklyn's Ralph Branca joined the parade of pitching headlines by copping both games for Brooklyn against Chicago, the first 5-3 with the aid of relief help from Hank Behrman and Hugh Casey and the second 4-3 as a reliever for starter Harry Taylor.
 St. Louis subdued the New York Giants, 11-4 Red Munger, coasting along with an 11-hitter.
 Philadelphia clubbed the hapless Pittsburgh twice, 7-2 and 2-1 burying the Pirates deeper in the National cellar.

City Teachers At NEA Meet To Return Soon

Postwar Problems Are Discussed by Thursday Speaker

Three Washington C. H. High School teachers will be home Saturday, after the five-day conference of the National Education Association in Cincinnati holds its concluding session Friday afternoon, when the general assembly will be asked to adopt a resolution calling upon Congress to enact legislation setting up "an adequate military establishment."

Miss Marjorie Evans, representing the Central Ohio Teachers' Association, Arthur Engle, delegate from the City Teachers' Association, and Miss Goldie Baughn will bring back a message from Representative Walter H. Judd (R-Minn.) who warned Thursday night that "whether or not another war comes depends on mankind learning to live together."

Speaking to the NEA's 26th general assembly, the Minnesota Republican said:

"Throughout the world today a fierce political and ideological war is being waged to determine who won the shooting war. No matter who defeated the Germans and Japanese the real victor in World War II depends on what ideas and whose ideas win out in the reconstruction of the world."

"We know who defeated Germany," Judd said, "but who is going to win the Germans—win their minds and hearts."

Referring to Greece, Judd asserted: "If she should go down, Turkey would be helplessly outflanked; if they go down then of course Iran, Iraq, Arabia and Afghanistan would go down like tenpins and Russia's agents would stand at the door of India."

He said some people had advocated abandoning China and Asia, "as they advocated abandoning Greece and Turkey, because they assume that the only way we can avoid war with Russia is by always yielding. But surely we have learned something about this business of getting peace by yielding. It leads not to peace, but to war."

However, Judd declared, he rejected utterly "the talk that war between the United States and Russia is inevitable."

Pfc. Maynard Kruger Is Seeing Europe

Pfc. Maynard Kruger, son of Willard Kruger of 401 Gregg Street, is in Weisbaden, Germany, with the Army Air Forces, which are now policing Germany from the air, an announcement revealed today.

Pfc. Kruger is with the 686th AAF Band unit of the headquarters command. Weisbaden was formerly one of the most famous spas and health resorts of pre-war Europe. Many of the big hotels have been taken over for the military community, including the Kurhaus, a famous casino which is now the home of the American Red Cross Club.

Pfc. Kruger is among those working with the German Youth Activities Program, which is seeking to bring the benefits of the democratic way to the youth of post-war Germany.

Loring Lynch Faces Charge Of Kidnaping

Former Local Man Is Arrested in New Jersey

On a charge of child stealing, or kidnaping, filed by his former wife, Mrs. Josephine Nedostup, of Washington C. H., Loring Lynch, formerly of this city, was taken into custody at Mt. Holly, New Jersey, Thursday.

Early Friday morning Sheriff Orland Hays and Police Chief Valden Long, accompanied by Charles Hays, son of Sheriff and Mrs. Hays, armed with extradition papers obtained in Columbus Thursday, left by automobile for Mt. Holly in an effort to extradite Lynch and bring him back to Washington C. H. to face the charges filed here.

Lynch is charged with illegally and forcibly taking his son, William Roscoe Lynch, aged 8 years, on July 2, from this city, where he was in custody of his mother, Mrs. Nedostup, and removing him to his home in New Jersey.

Lynch had been before the Juvenile Court here on a charge of non support sometime ago, and had been paying toward support of the child, it is stated. His action was a violation of the court order, it was stated by Judge Rell G. Allen.

Under terms of the agreement reached regarding custody of the child, Lynch is to have possession of the boy one month during the school holidays each year.

Officers said that Lynch had obtained possession of the boy with the understanding that he was to take him to the Cincinnati Zoo, and instead of returning the child to the custody of his mother, removed him to his own home in New Jersey.

Efforts were made to have Lynch return the child here until the matter was adjusted in court, but he declined to do so.

It is understood that he filed some court action in New Jersey to retain possession of his son for sometime at least, and that he was also released upon bond following his arrest Thursday upon the warrant issued here by Judge R. H. Sites, before whom the charge was filed.

Officials were doubtful, it is understood, whether they would be successful in extraditing Lynch under the circumstances.

Gasoline Price Is Given Boost

Price Here Said to Be Below Average

Washington C. H. has one of the lowest prices for a gallon of gasoline in seven states, it was revealed today following the government order Tuesday that service stations throughout the state would be allowed to boost prices on regular gas one cent per gallon.

In spite of this one cent increase in price, Washington C. H. service stations still sell gas at lower prices than those in Detroit, South Bend, Indianapolis, Fort Wayne, Charleston, Pittsburgh, Sharon, Pa., and Buffalo.

A gallon of regular gas costs only 16½ cents at most of the service stations queried today. With the tax added, the price is 22 cents on a gallon of regular. In all of the cities mentioned, gas averages well over 17 cents a gallon, and in some cases, 18 cents, without tax.

The price per gallon of regular gas in Detroit is 17.03 cents; in South Bend, 18 cents; in Indianapolis, 17½ cents; in Fort Wayne, 18 cents; in Lexington, 16½ cents; in Charleston, 17.7 cents; in Wheeling, 16½ cents; in Pittsburgh, 17½ cents; in Sharon, 17½ cents and in Buffalo, 17½ cents.

The average for these cities, not including Washington C. H. is 17.37 cents a gallon, not including the tax. Ethyl gasoline remains at 24 cents a gallon here, including tax.
